

Harvard Department of Sociology

Faculty and Student Involvement in University Initiatives

Reflecting both the breadth of resources offered by Harvard University and the interdisciplinarity of the department, sociology faculty are involved in an average of three university initiatives outside the department and sociology graduate students are involved in an average of two university initiatives outside the department.

Notes: The graph was created using data on current faculty and graduate students in the Harvard University Department of Sociology as of November 29, 2017. Edges are directed from faculty and students to university institutions, including departments, schools, or research centers. Edges represent a formal affiliation, funding source, or regular participation in activities. Dark grey nodes are faculty, light grey nodes are students, and red-orange nodes are university initiatives. The graph was created in Gephi 0.9.2 using the Fruchterman Reingold algorithm with a no overlap adjustment.

Abbreviations: AAAS (African and African American Studies Department); CAPS (Center for American Political Studies); CES (Center for European Studies); CDC (Center on the Developing Child); DRCLAS (David Rockefeller Center for Latin American Studies); HBS (Harvard Business School); HCPDS (Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies); HKS (Multidisciplinary Program in Inequality and Social Policy at the Harvard Kennedy School); HMS (Harvard Medical School); JCHS (Joint Center for Housing Studies); Fairbank (Fairbank Center for Chinese Studies); KI (Korea Institute); WCFIA (Weatherhead Center for International Affairs)